FIVA Newsletter February 2007

13.02.2007

Dear subscriber,

This is the second version of the FIVA Newsletter to be distributed electronically, and the editors would like to thank everyone who sent us their appreciative comments about this new method of communication after the first edition. We also want to thank everyone who sent us so many different greeting cards for this New Year. And last but not least, we would like to welcome the new individual subscribers to this Newsletter.

New FIVA Website

For the past two weeks, the new version of the FIVA website has been online; perhaps you have already taken the opportunity to look at it. If not, you can visit this new website by using the link below. The new website is based on the FIVA's format and has been structured to reflect a better overview of all the items in which FIVA is involved. Of course there is still much work to do on it and we will be updating the website daily with any interesting information especially aimed at all the owners of historic vehicles. Please feel free to contribute by letting us have your views about the new website by sending an email to info@fiva.org.

Mailing list

In the introduction, we welcomed several individual subscribers; these people have filled out the form which is online and now receive information about FIVA directly to their mailbox. We would like you to encourage all the members of your club or federation to become free subscribers along with any of your friends interested in classic vehicles. Our ambition is to spread information about FIVA as widely as possible by approaching as many interested people as possible. Please send them the link so that they too can subscribe to this Newsletter.

magazines. We hope that every enthusiast will follow these guidelines as by so doing it will make a contribution to the preservation of the right to use our classic vehicles into the future.

Drivers' Code

Our Drivers' Code, published in line with the EU's guidelines, is online and can be downloaded from our website. We need to circulate this Code to at least 75,000 owners of classic vehicles; this was a solid commitment made by FIVA to the European Parliament. Please put this information on your own webpage and into your club or federation

General Committee Meeting

Members might like to know that the next General Committee Meeting will be held in Cyprus on the 23-24 March 2007. Most of the members of the General Committee will have met each other already in February in Paris during various meetings timed to coincide with the Retromobile event in Paris. The French Federation (FFVE) has, as always, a meeting point on their stand so if you have the opportunity of visiting this fair, be sure to contact any of officers of either the French Federation or FIVA who might be present.

FIVA Events

FIVA is growing again in the field of events. More and more organisers are asking to run their events under the FIVA umbrella and they are always very welcome, because FIVA can offer them better opportunities to promote their events in the future and to run them within the security of FIVA's regulations. Once again the annual meeting between FIVA officials and the event organisers will take place in Essen on the 31st March 2007 during that most prestigious of shows in Europe; Techno Classica Essen. They will be presented with a synopsis of FIVA's investigations into the regulations applicable in different countries, which have responded so far: many thanks to all the ANFs which have already replied to our enquiries.
